Doings of the "Go-Fans"

The Club life of a city: the personnel elect, holds up the mirror of society, its doings to reflect. Criterion of a city's growth and 'booster' of its zeal, it gathers to its portals, men who guard the public weal! The refuge of the bachelor, the benedict's delight; where sordid cares are flung aside, and worries put to flight; where 'this is of every kind and hue, find blissful liquidations; and minds distraught, and nerves overwrought, find ecstatic relaxation!!

There are many clubs in Washington, their membership composed of all classes. These clubs are deserted mornings—but they are awfully busy afternoons and evenings!

GERMANY MOST
PEACEFUL NATIONAt War Fewer Years Last Century Than Any Other European Country.

Closing Session of Institute of Criminology Hears Address on Subject.

That Germany was the most peaceful nation in Europe in the century which ended fourteen years ago and France the most warlike, judged according to the time nations were engaged in war, was the statement made by Prof. Arthur MacDonald, honorary president of the third International Congress of Criminal Anthropology of Europe, in an address yesterday at the closing session of the sixth annual convention of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology at the New Willard.

With "War and Criminal Anthropology" as his subject, Prof. MacDonald declared: "In the study of crime in its broadest sense the criterion for the degree of criminality is coming to be measured according to the degree of injury to humanity and from this point of view, war, or international crime, is the most serious of all crimes."

6,000,000 Men Killed.
"It has been estimated that about 6,000,000 men were killed on European battlefields during the two centuries before 1870. Five-sixths of this total perished during the last ninety years of that period. One war alone, the Seven Years' War, cost the lives of 900,000 men. In the period from 1870 to 1914, a period of 44 years, only 22 were years of peace throughout the world, and 1,139 were years of war. In other words, there was one year of peace to every thirteen years of war."

Prof. MacDonald then presented the following table, showing the peace and war records of European nations during the period of 1870-1914:

War years.	Peace years.

Institute Declines to Act.
The institute refused to commit itself on the subject of sterilization of criminals, but a report on the subject by Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

In the presence of Joel D. Hunter, of Illinois, chairman of the committee on sterilization of criminals, Dr. White, a member of the committee, read a voluminous report on criminal sterilization prepared during the past year. This positive recommendation made by the committee was that $2,000 be appropriated for study of the effects of sterilization where it is imposed by law.

Rev. John Meloy, professor of moral theology at Catholic University, a member of the committee, explained the report in these words: "The committee was convinced that in view of absolute lack of unanimity among the experts regarding organic transmissibility of criminal traits there was absent an adequate basis for legislation looking to the sterilization of criminals."

Through Chairman Edwin M. Abbott, of Pennsylvania, the committee on employment and compensation of prisoners receive a substantial portion of the prisoner's compensation. The committee declared: "The 'State-use system' is the best method for utilizing results of the labor of prisoners and the construct system should be abolished."

The committee on insanity and criminal responsibility presented a report through its chairman, Prof. E. R. Keedy, of Northwestern University, containing the draft of a law governing the conduct of expert witnesses in trials where the mental state of a criminal is questioned. The committee recommended that the proposed law be presented to State legislatures for passage. The institute accepted this report.

The institute elected the following officers: Robert Ralston, judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia, president; Charles M. DeCoursey, of Boston, Dr. William A. White, of Washington, William E. Mikel, of Philadelphia, Amos W. Butler, of Indianapolis, and Emory S. Borden, of Los Angeles, vice presidents; Edwin M. Abbott, of Philadelphia, secretary; Bronson Winthrop, of New York, treasurer; Quincy A. Myers, of Cincinnati, Ind., and J. Wood, of Los Angeles, C. B. Bird, of Chicago, Edward Lindsay, of Warren, Pa., and John Lisle, of Philadelphia, members of executive board.

Irrigation projects now under way or contemplated by the Union of South Africa call for an expenditure of more than $2,000,000.

Julia Chandler Manz will describe in her incomparable style the installment plan which George M. Cohan employs in the writing of his plays; recall the days when Marie Tempest rollicked through the many delightful comic opera roles which so endeared her to the heart of America, and chat in breezy fashion of news of peculiar interest to the local devotee of plays and players.

James S. Metcalfe, the dramatic critic of Life, will review the week past in New York theaters in his usual virile manner.

Two beautiful pictorial art pages, descriptive of the artists and the plays in which they will appear in this city next week, will be a delightful departure from the usual order of things, inaugurating the largest, most profusely illustrated, most ably edited, and newsmost theatrical section ever given the Washington public by a local newspaper.

RETREAT BEGINS TOMORROW.

Annual Catholic Observance Lasts
Three Weeks at St. Patrick's.

The retreat for the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin and the League of Good Shepherd, an annual observance lasting three weeks, will open tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church. The first week's ceremonies will be conducted for women, the second for men, and the third week will be devoted to a course of lectures to non-Catholics.

Rev. Joseph Turner, C. S. R., will conduct the women's retreat. Masses will be celebrated each morning during the retreat, with short instruction service from 8:30 to 8:45 a. m. The series of lectures before non-Catholics will be conducted by the Rev. John E. Burke, of the Paulist Fathers.

Solemn high mass at St. Patrick's tomorrow will be sung by the Rt. Rev. William T. Russell, D. D., rector. Father Turner will preach. Both choirs will assist in the services.

IT'S MR. HEFLIN NOW
WHO'S LATEST RECRUIT
TO SUFFRAGE RANKSFamous Anti Congressman Buys "The Suffragist," but Nix on Dropping Coin in the Hat.

Representative Heflin, of Alabama, Democrat, and an anti-suffragist in no gentle interpretation of the term last night contributed to the support of the Congressional Union. And the Congressional Union is waging a bitter campaign in opposition to all Democrats.

Miss Elsie Hill was explaining the union's policy last night at an open air meeting, held at Pennsylvania avenue when Representative Heflin chanced to stroll by. A fair suffragist "spotted" him, recognized him and approached him in an ironical attempt to sell him a copy of the Suffragist, published by the Congressional Union. There came near being one dead suffragist when the Alabama Congressman dipped into his pocket for the coin necessary to purchase the paper. The speaker also recognized the Representative and very pointedly explained various sentiments of the Congressional Union.

A collection also was taken up at the meeting, but although Mr. Heflin was closely watched he was not seen to drop anything into the hat.

AID TO REACH THE TOP.

Making Men to Meet the New Demands of Industry.

For the past quarter of a century the United States has found its chief problem to be the scarcity of skilled labor—men whose practical experience rests upon sound scientific knowledge.

In 1880 only 2 per cent of the population lived in cities; today the proportion is about 6 per cent. This means that the emphasis of American life has changed from agriculture to manufacture. Practically every electric railway has been built since 1880, and in the same period electric power and lighting plants have been constructed in thousands. The steam railroad mileage has nearly doubled, the production of coal has tripled, the output of steel has quadrupled, and the volume of copper for commercial uses must be multiplied by six.

The manufacturing of automobiles, the distribution of their repair and their operation require 1,000,000 skilled men where not one was needed twenty-five years ago. Every industry is clamoring for men, for men with the mental equipment that fits them for constant changes in method and machinery. The paramount need of American industry is a vast body of flexible labor able to adapt itself to the new demands.

The formal educational institutions in this country are doing their best to meet this demand, but the thousands of industrial and technical schools and the scientific colleges are able to reach only a small portion of the labor force. The youth—those who are looking forward to life. What can be done for the multitude who are already engaged in some form of industry? Unless they can be trained and retrained while still earning a livelihood for themselves and their families, they must practically pass into the ranks of unskilled labor.

It is impossible for them to go back to school or college. Whatever education or training they obtain must be carried to them by the simplest method and at the least cost.

It was to cope with conditions like this that the international correspondence schools were established twenty-four years ago—not as a rival or a substitute for other educational institutions, but to supplement what these latter had done, or to do what they acknowledge themselves unable to do. The purpose of the international correspondence schools is to carry education or technical training to any and anywhere at the least possible cost and in the most practical form, and to do it in such a way that the recipient can continue to earn a livelihood in the meantime while preparing for a much larger earning power in the future.

Changes in Personnel.

The Department of Commerce announced yesterday the following changes in its personnel: Edwin Hadley Smith, provisionally appointed clerk at $900 in the office of the Secretary, Mrs. Carrie M. Couden, clerk at $1,000 in the Bureau of the Census, has resigned.

FOUNDRY CHURCH
100 YEARSWeek of Exercises Beginning
Tomorrow Commemorate
Close of Notable Work.

LINCOLN WAS A MEMBER

M. E. Congregation, Formed in 1814.
Will Observe Golden Jubilee of Christian Endeavor.

A whole week of exercises, beginning tomorrow, will commemorate the close of the whole century of Christian endeavor for Foundry M. E. Church, at Sixteenth and Church streets, one of the largest as well as the oldest in this section.

Rev. Dr. George Elliott, who was pastor of the church from March, 1887, until February, 1903, and who is now at Mount Clemens, Mich., will occupy the pulpit at Foundry tomorrow morning. His theme will be "The Choir Invisible." In the evening another former pastor, Rev. Dr. Robert M. Moore, will preach.

How It Got Its Name.
Foundry Church derived its name from an incident of legendary sound of the war of 1812-14. Henry Foxhall, of Georgetown, was so grateful to the Almighty for having saved his foundry from the shells of the British that he donated ground for the first Foundry Church, and a tablet to his memory was erected in the edifice in 1904.

The first church was erected at Fifteenth and R streets northwest, and contained a President's pew, cushioned and furnished with a door, which was occupied frequently by President Madison. President Lincoln was attracted to the same place and when somebody offered to subscribe $20 toward a fund to elect him an honorary member (it cost $100 in those days) the President arose and, stretching out his long arm, said: "This is the first time in my life I have ever been put upon the block. Let me pay my own money and take me down." He produced $100 and was taken in.

The edifice was remodeled in 1849 and the congregation continued to grow and worship there until 1864, when they moved to a new building at Fourteenth and G northwest. This edifice was eventually replaced with a more pretentious one, on the same site, which continued to house the congregation until 1902, when the march of business drove out the people, but they carried with them $200,000 in cash representing the price they were paid. This gave them approximately $25,000 over and above all expenditures upon the property.

This money was deposited in several banks and trust companies and it is written in the official history of the church, that the church treasurer was bound by a special committee selected the present site for another church, and the new edifice was dedicated in 1904. Meanwhile services were held here and there.

Rev. Dr. Elliott Will Preach.
The week's program is as follows: Sunday, Oct. 25—11 a. m., sermon, Rev. Dr. George Elliott, special music, 9:30 a. m., Sunday school, 1 p. m., Breuninger, superintendent; 3:30 a. m., Old Foundry Class, J. R. Riggles, leader; 4 p. m., Vesper services, Y. W. C. A.; 7 p. m., Epworth League service. "How can I win my friend for Christ?" James D. D. (Pastor from March 1907 to February 1909); Rev. George Elliott, D. D.

Monday, Oct. 26—8 p. m., "Historical" night, Bishop Earl Cranston, presiding. Addresses by Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Rev. Samuel V. Leach, D. D.; Rev. John D. D. (Pastor from March 1907 to February 1909); Rev. George Elliott, D. D.

Tuesday, Oct. 27—8 p. m., "General Outlook" night, special music, 9:30 a. m., sermon by Bishop William Burt. Wednesday, Oct. 28—8 p. m., "Fraternal" night. Reception to the board of bishops and addresses by Rev. S. H. Green, D. D., pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. Address by Rev. Whitford L. McDowell, D. D., district superintendent of the Episcopal Church. Thursday, Oct. 29—8 p. m., evening of praise and prayer. Address by Bishop Theodore S. Henderson.

Friday, Oct. 30—8 p. m., lecture by Bishop William A. Quayle (Admission by card until 7:45 p. m.). Sunday, Nov. 1—11 a. m., sermon by Bishop William A. Quayle, 8 p. m., sermon by Bishop Luther B. Wilson. (Pastor from March, 1910, to March, 1913.)

BROKERS URGED TO OBEY LAW.

Association Will Ask Members to Abide by "For Rent" Sign Order.

The Real Estate Brokers' Association of Washington will send a petition to every licensed real estate broker in the District, asking them to abide by the law passed by Congress last year, which requires that only three brokers may place a "for rent" sign on the same house and that only one sign of each broker may appear.

This was decided at the annual meeting of the association, held in the rooms of the Board of Trade, last night. George Worthington, acting-president of the association, stated that the Commissioners have threatened to charge a fee of $1 for every sign placed on a "for rent" house in the District unless the law passed by Congress last year is abided by. He said that the Real Estate Brokers' Association has interested with and gained the consent of the Commissioners to hold off such action until the association had made an effort to induce all the brokers to obey the law.

The association also voted to buy a bale of cotton.

The following officers were elected: John Weaver, re-elected president; George Y. Worthington, re-elected vice president; Harry K. Boas, secretary, and H. L. Rust, treasurer. L. W. Grooms, Randall Hagner, and J. C. Weiden were elected to serve on the executive committee.

BOASTS FLOWER GARDENS.

Anacostia the Only Suburb that Has Public Beds, Says Report.

Maurice Otterback, chairman of the committee of the Anacostia Citizens' Association in charge of the town flower gardens, has submitted a statement in the manner in which these gardens were made possible, and also the persons who have been instrumental in providing flower beds and funds for the gardens. Col. Harts issued an order at the beginning of the summer for a number of plants from the propagating gardens. Mr. Kramer donated several thousand plants for the gardens and Mr. Lucas has been deeply interested in the care of the gardens since they were begun. Mr. Otterback further states $60 was secured from citizens by popular subscription to care for the beds. His report also states that Anacostia has the distinction of being the only community that can boast flower beds of this kind maintained by the public.

STEAMER RED CROSS
DUE BACK TOMORROWLetter from Admiral Ward Speaks of Warm Reception on Arrival at Rotterdam.

The steamer Red Cross, which was chartered by the American Red Cross, is due to reach New York on her return trip tomorrow. A letter received at the American Red Cross headquarters from Rear Admiral Aaron Ward, U. S. N., retired, in command of the steamer, which bears the stamp "Rotterdam, October 11," tells of the reception of the steamer on its arrival at the Dutch port.

During the ship's stay at Rotterdam it was visited by Count Tallyrand and Baron Goldsmid-Rothschild, representing the German Red Cross, and His Royal Highness, the Prince Consort, president of the Netherlands Red Cross Society. Officials of this society were unimpressed in their attention during the stay, says Admiral Ward.

The admiral also reports that 140 passengers for the return trip had been booked up to the time the letter was written and more than $11,000 received in passage money.

The various Red Cross units were gotten off promptly to their destinations in Belgium, Germany, Austria and other points selected as suitable for Red Cross bases.

GREEN FUNERAL TODAY.

Government Officials Will Serve as Honorary Pallbearers.

The funeral of Bernard R. Green, superintendent of the Library of Congress building and grounds, who died Thursday, will take place from All Souls' Unitarian Church this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Honorary pallbearers will be: Herbert Putnam, librarian of Congress; the secretary or acting secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; O. H. Tittmann, superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey; Gen. William H. Bixby, U. S. A., retired, ex-chief of engineers; Prof. Charles E. Munroe, president of the Cosmos Club; Gen. John M. Wilson, U. S. A.; retired, of the Corcoran trustees; J. R. Marshall and Pickering Dodge.

Will Exhibit Painting.

In an effort to arouse interest in the plan to erect in this city a memorial hall to George Washington, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, originator of the plan, is bringing here a handsome painting of the proposed structure for exhibition. The painting, which has been made from the architect's plans by well-known artists, will be exhibited, first in the window of a large store in F street northwest and later in some convenient part of the uptown residential section.
